

Department:	Faculty of Information Technology
Course Name	Database Systems
Hours per week	4
Number of Credits	4
Course Description	The course aims to provide a foundation in understanding of database design principles, implementation and management. Upon completion, students should be able to identify and execute the steps involved in the design of a database, implement the design via a relational database management system, maintain the goal of data sharing and consistency of database systems.